All projects that involve multi-family residences (5+ units), non-residential properties or acquisition require a Phase I Environmental Site Assessment (at minimum), which must be completed by an Environmental Professional. *These consulting firm contacts have varying levels of experience in completing HUD Part 58 Environmental Reviews (ERs) in addition to investigative/remedial work.
 It is not required that projects hire an Environmental Consultant to complete the ER, but it is recommended for larger or more complex projects. Anyone who is involved with the project can complete the ER, including (but not limited to): project managers, town employees, Community Development Consultants, planning commission employees, etc. If the individual who has been tasked with completing the ER is unfamiliar with the ER process, a meeting with the Environmental Officer before initiating the ER process is strongly encouraged.
